SWALLOWED BY A WHALE.

Modern Account Paralleling the Biblical Story of Jonah.
John Townsend of 302 West 73rd street gives information that the story of the sailor, James Bartley, supposed to have been swallowed by a whale and rescued alive, referred to which was made in Tuesday's issue of the New York Times, was printed in detail in the Mercury of South Yarmouth, England, in October, 1891.

Bartley sailed on the Star of the East, and is supposed to have met with his adventure in the vicinity of the Falkland Islands. Mr. Townsend says the story is a good sea man's yarn, whether one chooses to believe it or not.

According to the story, which is told in great detail, "the ship cited a whale one morning on her star-board quarter. Two boats were manned, and in a short time one was near enough to spear the whale, which was an unusually large one. The fish made a terrible fight. Both boats got spears fastened in it, and were dragged some three miles.

Finally, when the whale came to the surface, it managed to strike one of the boats with its nose. The boat was upset. One man was drowned, and another, named James Bartley, disappeared. It was supposed at the time that he, too, had been drowned.

The whale gave up at last and was taken back to the side of the ship. The crew went to work with axes and spades to secure the fat. They worked all day and a part of the night, and resumed operations the next forenoon. They had now reached the stomach and were cleaning it to hoist it on deck, when they were startled to notice something inside of it which gave spasmoidic signs of life.

The vast pouch was hoisted to the deck and cut open, and inside was found the missing sailor, doubled up and unconscious.

He was laid out on deck and treated to a bath of sea water, which soon revived him, but his mind was not clear, and he was placed in the Captain's quarters, where he remained two weeks a raving lunatic. He was carefully treated by the captain and officers of the ship, and finally he began to get possession of his senses. At the end of the third week he had entirely recovered from the shock and resumed his duties.

During the brief sojourn in the whale's belly Bartley's skin, where it was exposed to the action of the gastric juices, underwent a striking change. His face and hands were bleached to deathly whiteness and the skin was wrinkled, giving the man the appearance of having been parboiled.

Bartley affirmed that he could probably have lived inside of his house of flesh until he starved, for he lost his senses through fright and not through lack of air. He says that he remembers the sensation of being lifted in the air by the nose of the whale and of falling into the water. Then there was a fearful rushing sound, which he believed to be the beating of the water by the whale's tail. Then he was encompassed by a fearful darkness and he felt himself slipping along a smooth passage of some sort that seemed to move and carry him forward.

This sensation lasted but an instant. Then he felt that he had more room. He felt about him and his hands came in contact with a yielding, slimy substance that seemed to shrink from his touch. It finally dawned on him that he had been swallowed by the whale, and he was overcome with horror at the situation. He could breathe easily, but the heat was terrible. It was not a scorching, stifling nature, but it seemed to open the pores of his skin and draw out his vitality.

He became very weak and grew sick at the stomach. He knew that there was no hope of escape from his strange prison. Death stared him in the face and he tried to look at it bravely, but the awful quiet, the fearful darkness, the horrible knowledge of his environment, and the terrible heat finally overcame him, and he must have fainted, for the next he remembered being in the captain's cabin.

The account further says: "The health of the man does not seem to be affected. He is in splendid spirits and apparently enjoys all the blessings of life that come in his way. The whaling captains say they never knew a parallel case. They say that it frequently occurs that men are swallowed by whales who become infuriated by the pain of the harpoon and attacked the boats, but they have never known a man to go through the ordeal that Bartley did and come out alive."

Death Freeze.

Langdon, N. D., Dec. 3.—In Emmons county a pitiful case of suffering and death is reported as a result of the recent storm. A Russian family named Belovitz ran out of firewood right in the midst of the storm and in their desperation tore down and burned a part of the house. This let in the intense cold and the whole family, father, mother and three children, were found frozen to death. There is a wood and coal famine in this section, the farmers having bought only sparingly because of high prices.

Blame it on Dynamite Dick.

Guthrie, Ok., Dec. 2.—Four masked robbers, supposed to be headed by Dynamite Dick, held up Store keeper Ernest Powell at Ingram last night and made him deliver $300. After securing the money and while leaving the store, the outlaws were fired on by Powell. The fire was returned and a farmer named Ellis, who was in the store, was shot. The robbers are supposed to be the same who held up the postmaster at Floyd Tuesday night and secured $1,264.

Cook Was Away From Home.

Harvard, Ill., Dec. 2.—William and Patrick Barry, farmers, residing six miles south of this city, in the absence of their mother, decided to cook flour gravy. They found a saucer that contained flour, and used it, not knowing that strychnine had been mixed with it by their mother to kill rats. Two hired men and a nephew joined at dinner. Shortly afterward all were taken violently ill and it is thought all will die.

Though the Twice-a-Week Republic of St. Louis excelled all other Western weekly papers in publishing the news of the campaign, it now announces that it has extended its news service, and hereafter it will give its readers the best paper in the country. This means much, because the next twelve months will be crowded with news of big events. With all the improvements to its service the yearly subscription will be the same—one dollar a year, by mail, twice a week.

Paducah, Ky., Dec. 2.—A son of Ike Stanfield, a farmer of Graves county, is dead, and two other members of his family are precariously ill from poisoning. Arsenic was used. There is no clue to the murderer.

ABDUCTED GIRL FOUND.

Her Assaults Are Brought Over to the Grand Jury.

Webb City, Mo., Dec. 1.—The developments in the preliminary examination of William Wheeler, Phineas Wheeler, Oscar Brown and Charles Piper in Caterville today on the charge of assaulting Miss Edna Cloud last Friday morning as stated in these dispatches, show one of the most brutal alleged crimes ever committed in Jasper county. Miss Cloud's testimony is that defendants broke in the house through a window and after assaulting her with a revolver and club they chloroformed her.

The defendants admitted almost everything. Phineas Wheeler was discharged, the other defendants being held to the grand jury on December 7. This morning the officers found Miss Cloud, who had been abducted, in a small house in the outskirts of this city, where Tom and Dave Hamilton, her kidnapers, left her Sunday night after spiriting her away. She is in a serious condition and her ultimate recovery is regarded as doubtful. After testifying today she completely collapsed.

Mormons in Indiana.

Ligonier, Ind., Dec. 2.—The work of Mormon missionaries is causing trouble in Noble, La Grange and Steuben counties, where proselyting is being prosecuted to such an extent that an organized effort is being made to counteract the effect. The Mormons are refused admission to houses, but despite the counteracting influences, bands of converts are preparing to move to the Western colonies. Single women are guaranteed free transportation.

Torturing Rheumatism.

The busiest and most useful men are not always exempt from sickness. Especially are they liable to be attacked and completely disabled by that most annoying and painful ailment—Rheumatism. Men in all walks of life are subject at any time to be seized with this disease, and besides the great bodily pain, there is almost unbearable mental anguish at the thought of having one's strength and vigor gradually supplanted by a condition of utter helplessness. Under the effects of Rheumatism, the strongest men become the weakest, and the most useful are robbed of their usefulness.

Mr. J. A. LeSeur has lived in Atlanta, Ga., for years, and some of the prettiest residences and most substantial business blocks of that city are monuments to his skill as an architect and builder.

MR. J. A. LESEUR.

But like many other busy men, Mr. LeSeur was overtaken by Rheumatism and soon his strength gave way to a condition of helplessness. This dread disease produced more agony, he says, than can well be described. "For years I have suffered with Sciatic Rheumatism and often felt as if a small piece of my spine had been taken out, also as if a fragment of bombshell had passed through my left hip. When I would sit down, I could not straighten up for several minutes, and then only at the expense of great pain. I could get absolutely no relief, though many remedies were tried. Someone recommended S. S. S. and I was almost in despair when I began its use. In three days, however, I was so greatly relieved that I felt very little inconvenience from the rheumatism. The disease grew less painful as I continued the S. S. S., and very soon disappeared entirely. S. S. S. also proved to be a fine tonic, as I now have more appetite, and feel better than ever before in my life. I cannot say too much in praise of S. S. S."

Rheumatism is a condition of the blood which has always baffled the doctors, and it is a peculiarity that those who once have it are sure to always be subject to its attacks from time to time. The reason of this is that the doctors are only able to give temporary relief, but cannot rid the system of the disease permanently. S. S. S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) is the only real blood remedy for real blood troubles, such as Rheumatism, Scrofula, Cancer, Eczema, Catarrh, Tetters, Contagious Blood Poison, etc. When S. S. S. once forces a disease from the system it never returns. Our valuable books will be mailed free to any address. Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Georgia.

Death of a Giant.

Carlyle, Ill., Dec. 3.—There has just been interred in the cemetery here the remains of the largest man in Clinton county and probably in Southern Illinois. They were those of Johann Heinrich Budden, who weighed 400 pounds. Three years ago his body became so heavy that his limbs refused to carry the ponderous weight and since that time he was almost helpless. A few months ago he fell and it required the efforts of two strong men, aided by an improvised derrick, to get him on his feet again.

Budden's waist measurement was 130 inches, one of his arms was larger than the leg of an ordinary man, and his lower limbs above the knee were each equal to the circumference of any medium sized person's body. He required a coffin six feet long, twenty six inches wide and twenty four inches deep, which is double extra size. Ten men carried the corpse to the cemetery, as a hearse could have never withstood the weight.

The dead man was born in Prussia in 1828. He had lived in Clinton Co. fifty years and had acquired a small fortune.

Fifty-Fifth Congress.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.—The Clerk of the House of Representatives has issued the usual unofficial list of members of the House of the Fifty-fifth Congress. The list shows that the House will be composed of 204 republicans, 124 democrats, 13 fusionists 12 populists and 3 silverites, and that there is one vacancy, from the First Missouri District. Of the total membership, 205 were in the last House and ten others had served in previous Congresses.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 3.—For seven months Grace Solomon, daughter of a wealthy pawnbroker, has been chained to the walls of a cage, raving in a frightful manner. Her condition is so filthy as to beggar description. She was perfectly nude when found by the humane society. Her mother has refused to do anything for her. Her father is an old time pawnbroker, who is said to be immensely wealthy. As the insane asylum is overcrowded the authorities do not know what to do with her.

J. O. Arnold and wife, an old couple residing on a farm near St. Joseph, were bound and tortured for hours Friday night by three masked robbers. Arnold gave the robbers $18, all the money he had, but they thought he had more and tortured the old couple in various ways in order to extort from them the hiding place of more money. They then threatened them with death should they reveal the crime. Arnold is dangerously injured.

Jephth Frier, the young telegraph operator who shot and killed Landlord Hackler at Pacific a few months ago, died at Wolfe City, Texas, Monday morning. His father, Diggs Frier, at Bowling Green, was notified of the death. The cause is supposed to be due to pneumonia.

In a glove contest at Sedalia Monday night between Jack Burke, of Omaha and John Williams, a Sedanegro, the fight came to an end in the third round. Burke broke his left wrist by a blow on Williams' head. The fight was forfeited to the Sedalia coach.

London, Nov. 27.—The Daily News will tomorrow publish a dispatch from Constantinople saying that another massacre of Armenians is reported to have occurred in the vicinity of Diarbekir. It is rumored that more than 500 persons were killed.

Found Frozen.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 2.—The body of Sheriff William E. Herron of Plymouth county, Iowa, was found this morning bruised and frozen beside the railway track near Merrill, where he had evidently fallen from the train and been crippled and unable to reach help.

Shook the Earth.
Louisiana, Mo., Dec.—About 10:10 this morning a terrific explosion was heard, accompanied by a terrible shock. Citizens were greatly frightened and thought the powder works run by the Repauna Chemical Company at Ashburne, ten miles above here, had blown up. Later it was learned that a large mine had fallen and exploded near Rockport, Ill., twelve miles from here.
